COUPLE ELOPES TO OLD KAUTUCK

Bride Did Not Want Her Mother to Worry and Sent Note by the Nightwatchman.

GIRL SIXTEEN YEARS OF AGE

Cecil Ross and James Foley Will be Married by the Groom's Father
Who is a Minister.

Nightwatchman Tom Scanlan stood knocking at the front door. It was eleven o'clock. Finally the occupants were aroused and a woman who hastily dressed came to the door.

"Here is a letter for you" said the nightwatch and he was off, enveloped in the darkness.

The woman took the letter inside and turned up a light. What in the world? And at such an hour! What could it mean? Surely not a threat. And still everything has been so mysterious. Slightly trembling she opened the missive and had it been a letter from the Black Hand she would not have been more startled and surprised. The letter was from her daughter, sixteen-year-old Cecil Ross. The reader was Mrs. Nora Ross, who lives in West Second street.

The letter stated that the writer and her sweetheart, James Foley, intended to elope and that they were going to his old home town Falmouth, Kentucky, where they would be married today by the groom's father, who is a minister. The daughter stated that they would be back here tomorrow or Monday at the very latest.

The couple has been going together for some time, but the mother did not have the slightest idea that their intentions and purposes were serious. She now recalls Foley jokingly asking her if she would object to them getting married and that she replied—also in a spirit of fun—that she would object. The only objection she had to the match was that the girl was too young to marry. But now that it is over she will welcome them on their return and they will reside with her, temporarily.

Foley is twenty-four years of age and is a plumber by trade. He has been here several years and is well liked by all who know him, being a gentlemanly fellow in every particular. The bride is a beautiful and talented miss and recently graduated from the Indianapolis Business College. Since then she has been employed in the general offices of the I. & C. in a clerical position. She is a daughter of Gash Ross, who met death by electrocution in Connersville last year.

The couple cleverly planned their elopement. Miss Ross had a new Easter outfit and insisted on wearing it last night when they left ostensibly to attend the show at the Grand theater. The mother pleaded with her to wait until Easter Sunday, but seeing the girl was determined, the mother acquiesced.

The couple will be given a reception by their friends on their return.

TWO OLDEST MEN IN CITY

Birthdays of Two Pioneers Occur in the Same Week.

Paul Kerr, who celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday yesterday is the second oldest man in Rushville. James H. Foxworthy, father of Mrs. Thomas M. Green, is the oldest person in the city, being ninety-two years old last Sunday.

An Easter Morn

Out of the tomb of night a day has risen, be not anxious, this day is all your own; do not hurry, for in time it is like all other days; neither delay, for now is passing. Early turn your face to the dawn and let its fresh beams bathe away all the stains of night, then should the noon be dark with storms, your smile will still wear the rose tints of the morning. This new day can be saved only by spending it; therefore in its care be enduring; in its confusion be patient, in its sorrow, be trustful; in its trial be noble; in its peril be heroic. Step softly among human hearts and leave so much of kindness along life's pathway, that gladness shall spring up bearing tribute in the cool eventide of the world's glad Easter.

MAPLE CAUGHT WITH THE GOODS

County Recorder Obligated to Make a Confession When Perfume Was Found on Him.

WILL BE MARRIED TOMORROW

Vice President of Local Bachelors'
Club Wins a Bride in Faraway Montpelier.

Deputy county recorder Brooks was busy in the recorder's office today recording. And it is recorded:

"Where is the county recorder?" he was asked.

"He is not here; he has risen!" came the reply, in an Eastertide "accident."

Aha! Something was didding! Where was County Recorder Maple? True, the "maple" trees are "leafing" but why should the county recorder be leaving at such a time. There was an air of mystery around the office. Any time a question was asked regarding the genial Clell, all one would get in reply was a silly grin. It became exasperating. Looking out the window into space, for an inspiration, the Daily Republican saw a fleeting figure rounding the corner by the Rush County National bank. It looked for the world like Maple—all but the hat. The hot trail was taken up. Good enough, it was Maple.

"Whither are you bound?" he was asked on a run.

"Haven't got time to talk to you now, old boy," he said, laying down a heavy suit case, and changing a heavy box from under one arm to another. "Haven't got time, just now—that's right."

But he couldn't keep a smile from crawling out from underneath his carefully groomed mustache. There was an odor of apple blossom perfume on his coat lapel. Now Maple never did use perfume and that was the scent the reporter took up.

"Now come an through with it. Out with your story or honest I will—"

"Oh please don't. Wait until Monday and then—"

"No, if you don't tell me where you are going I will say that you have eloped, or skipped out with county funds or something like that."

With a look of pain on his face, the county recorder laid down his luggage and unbosomed himself. Yes, he was going to be married. Had planned to keep it quiet and did not want us to say anything about it. We promised to take "that" under advisement. The girl was a Montpelier girl and the wedding will occur Sunday. Guy Gordon, J. Vincent Young and Postmaster Charles Frazee will be in attendance. After the ceremony, the couple will return here for a short time Monday and will then go for a honeymoon in Ohio.

Mr. Maple is among the foremost and popular men of the county. He has been successful in politics on account of his pleasing and striking personality. In addition to being prominent in Republican politics, Clell Maple has made an enviable reputation training and racing fast horses. And in addition to that, he has long been vice president in the Bachelor's Club here.

Here is some detail from a Montpelier newspaper:

"Miss Stella Millikan of this city and Clell Maple of Rushville, secured a license to marry, yesterday, and the wedding will take place at high noon Easter Sunday at the home of the parents of the bride-to-be, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Millikan, in West High street.

"Only the immediate relatives will witness the ceremony, following which the couple will take a short trip to Ohio.

"Miss Millikan is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Millikan and an excellent young woman.

"Mr. Maple is recorder of Rush county and well known all over the State as a horseman. The couple will take up their residence in Rushville, immediately upon returning from their wedding trip."

They will be at home in North Main street after May 1.

STILL EXTENDING THE LINE

Liberty Press Says I. & C. Will be There Before Snow Flies.

Liberty Press: We feel safe in saying that before the snow flies the work on the extension of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction line from Connersville to Daniston, through this city will have been begun, and in all probability by that time Liberty will be enjoying the rides on the electric cars. Let's help to hasten the day.

POSTPONMENT OF OPEN MEETING

Of Ladies Musicales Was Necessary on Account of Damage Done to Pianos.

MUCH REGRET IS EXPRESSED

The members of the Ladies Musicales were forced to postpone their open meeting that was to have been held Monday evening, April 12, on account of the damage done to the pianos last Tuesday by unknown parties. The meeting is an annual affair, usually held sometime near Easter, and much regret is expressed that the indefinite postponement is necessary.

PLAYS POLITICS AND IS BEATEN

Little Howard Barrett's "Candidate" Was Defeated at Telephone Directors Meeting

HOWARD WANTED TO BE JUDGE

And For That End Struck a Pose and Made a Noise Like a "Regular Performer."

Death by his own hand, is the story in a nutshell of the downfall of one Howard Barrett, whose obituary was read last night at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Rushville Co-Operative Telephone company.

Little Howard (who is built after the floor plans of Senator LaFollette, but the LaFollette scheme of construction stops at the neck) had himself overestimated, and while there was no occasion for it, attempted to gain control of the telephone company and for that end injected politics into the matter. How foolish of him! Friends of Barrett and others interested in the success of the telephone plant entreated with him to keep the proposition aloft from politics. But it was the only place he could find support and he began to wave the flag of Democracy in the face of the people and cried out that he was about the only honest man in the bunch and the stockholders need not have a fear, for he would always protect their interest. By the skin of his teeth, which caused his lower jaw to drop, Barrett was elected one year ago. That was before the people could be aroused to the situation that Barrett was playing politics. After his election he wrote several articles, predicting the downfall of the "ring" and said that without a doubt the Democrats were going to elect a full ticket in Rush county. Why, he even had some Democrats believing that. The result was that they failed to elect a single official and were given the worst drubbing they have had for years. And Barrett was as much to blame for it as any other factor.

Barrett had a longing in his heart to be circuit judge. He thought he would jump around, kick up a little dust and crack his heels together and maybe some in the rank and file of Democracy would declare in loud and stentorian tones that here indeed was a second Daniel, a Moses, too, if you please, of his people. He thought in this wise that he would gain recognition and be classed with such Democratic leaders as Douglas Morris, John D. Megee and Lieut. Gov. Hall. But his efforts—or rather antics—were received with laughter.

When the Republicans were aroused to the true situation of affairs and realized that Barrett had unsheathed his sword in the name of Democracy they did become angry and determined to rise up and smite the Little Pretender. And since he chose to fight behind the cloak of politics and that was his own idea of things, the Republicans decided that they would fight fire with fire. Somebody touched a match to things last night and Barrett's dream went up in smoke. It was just another case of Aaron with a golden calf.

But John Kelly! It really was a shame to defeat John Kelly for everybody recognizes the fact that he is a good, straightforward citizen. They did not vote against John, but they voted against the company he has been keeping. He allowed Barrett to manage his campaign and there is where he lost out. The people were tired of Barrett once they appreciated the whyfore of his activity and his sinister motives. For that reason, and no other, did Kelly fall and was dragged through the dust of defeat.

Four good men faced the barrier when the race was started last night in the assembly room of the court house. Three directors were to be chosen from the quartette; three of the men were just "citizens" and the other was known as "Barrett's candidate." Robert Tompkins, Frank Reynolds and John H. Frazee were elected. Barrett's entry, John Kelly, was left at the post and was defeated by thirty-five votes.

Insomuch as Barrett had insisted on making politics of it, the Republicans sat in and willingly agreed to play any game Barrett proposed. When the meeting was over the crowd marched out of the building singing the old Republican battle song of victory "Marchin' Through Georgia," while Barrett, his cheeks flushed with the injury of defeat, his eyes snapping fire and his teeth clinched from a heart pain, slunk back in a corner and came out just before the janitor turned off the lights in the corridor. The judgeship had gone a'glimmering.

EASTERTIDE NOT JOYFUL TO THEM

Employees in Local Postoffice Just Can't See it in That Light.

EQUAL TO HOLIDAY BUSINESS

All Being Worked Over Time With Easter Post Cards—2155 Were Handled in Eight Hours.

Joyful Eastertide! Don't talk that sort of nonsense to me. Why this is the biggest day's work that I have done since I have had the office and right when I least expected it too, because who ever thought that all of these fool people would send all their friends Easter cards only to be glanced at, when received, and then thrown in the waste basket. These were epithets applied to the day of colored eggs by postmaster Charles Frazee at the postoffice, while in a pile of postal cards several feet high. But he was taking it all good naturedly, had his coat off, sleeves rolled up, and sweating and panting like a good fellow.

"But say, I don't suppose many people will believe this story just because they saw it in a newspaper, but it is an honest fact if I ever told the truth in my life."

"Well what is the story that you are talking about?"

"We handled right here in this little postoffice yesterday between the hours of twelve and eight, 2155 Easter post cards and I know what I am talking about, too, because I and the clerks counted every one. If there is any doubt about that not being the right number you can make it larger, because we might have missed a few. Thirteen hundred and eighty-four of that number were mailed here, and the remainder were sent to people in this city. And now, today, some of the business men are sending out Easter cards to all of their customers as advertisements and giving us a whole lot more work to do. And then there is another matter that I forgot. A large number of cards with isin-glass and other materials on the back were sent to the dead letter office because they were not sent in sealed envelopes and those we did not count.

"Isn't this somewhat of an innovation this Easter card business?"

"Yes, I should think it is an innovation. It is so much of an innovation that we had to put on an extra mail carrier on account of the Easter rush. It is actually worse than the holiday business. It was never this way before, they tell me. The Easter cards were so small in number that you would never know when Easter came if it were not for the colored place on the calendar marking the day. The post card houses are largely responsible for this, because they create the demand by making beautiful cards and then the people just can't keep from buying them."

A large number of the post cards mailed here came from the country, as all of the rural carriers report a heavy one-cent stamp business. Lew Cline brought in 95 of them off his route yesterday and it is thought that each carrier averaged about 60 a piece.

ABOUT THE SAME HERE.

Greensburg Review: The fact that the lecture course closes about one hundred dollars to the bad is a sad and shameful commentary upon Greensburg's desire for high class entertainment. With the best course that the city has had in years the indifference of our people is emphasized.

BILLY'S GREAT TRIP.

Young Whittla's Story of How He Was Kidnaped From School.

When little Willie Whittla, the Sharon (Pa.) boy who was kidnaped, was restored to his father in Cleveland, he told an interesting story of the case.

"Papa," he said in a tone of childish prattle, "I have been buggy riding, been on cars and in a nice big white house that looked like a hospital. I have been treated nice and had lots of good things to eat.

"It was just a little while before the geography lesson began when teacher called me to the door and said there was a man there who wanted me to go with him to see my father.

"I went to the coat room with teacher, and she helped me with my coat, and then I went downstairs with the man. I don't know how old he was—perhaps as old as my papa.

"We went out the front walk of the school building, and there, on State street, he put me into a buggy. There was only one man. He was short, not so tall as you. He had a red face and a brown overcoat and wore a mustache cut short.

"Then we drove out of Sharon, and I asked him where I was going. We crossed the river and took the road to Warren, and all the way I kept asking where my papa was. I wasn't scared at first.

"Just before we got into Warren (it was almost noon then) the man gave me two sandwiches to eat, for I was hungry.

"We stopped just outside Warren and walked into town, and I got awfully tired on the way. I can't remember just how we went away from there, whether it was on the steam cars or the electric, but I think we went to Newcastle.

"We slept there that night—the man who took me from the school building and another younger man, who didn't wear a mustache.

"The next day we went somewhere else—I don't know where. The men told me that I was sick and that if I didn't keep quiet and say my name was Jones they would put me in a place, where everybody had smallpox and that I would die.

"I thought we came to Ashtabula one time, but I don't know. I can't remember much about it all, for I was awful tired all the time, but I heard the men say Ashtabula lots of times, and once or twice they said Akron. There was a woman who had me some of the time, too, but I can't remember much about her.

"At last they took me to the corner of two streets and told me to get on a street car I saw coming and say I wanted to go to the Hollenden.

"I told the conductor, and he asked me my name, and I told him 'Jones,' because that was what they said to me to say.

"No, they did not hurt me one bit. They said they would put me with a lot of sick people if I didn't do just as they said. The only trouble was that in Newcastle and in another town which I don't remember much about we slept three in a bed, two men and me."

Mr. Crawford apparently knew that the end was near and with calmness he encouraged his family to bear up and to cease weeping. The novelist's last words were: "I enter serenely into eternity."

STILL CAUTIOUS

Commercial Operations Continue to be Governed by Conservatism.

New York, April 10.—Bradstreet's weekly review of trade today says: Trade, crop and industrial reports are still very irregular, but the underlying tone of business generally is slightly more optimistic. All present or future favorable occurrences, however, can not disguise the fact that some lines of industry are still very much depressed; that the first crop report of the year—that made by the government of winter wheat—is a poor one, indicating a short crop; that buying is still hampered in some sections by unfavorable weather or by the reduced purchasing power of the public, and that caution and conservatism still govern commercial operations to a large degree.

Hope Has Been Abandoned.

Cleveland, O., April 10.—The finding of additional pieces of wreckage from the fishing tug George A. Floss, which disappeared in the storm on Lake Erie Wednesday, along the shore twelve miles east of Cleveland, has practically dispelled all belief that the tug is afloat. Relatives of the missing men and owners of the boat have given up all hope of seeing any of the crew alive.

The Unwelcome Mr. Castro.

Washington, April 10.—The French government has informed the state department of its determination to put into effect immediately the decision announced Thursday from Paris to expel former President Castro, of Venezuela from Fort De France, Martinique and compel him to return to Europe. Smothered in a Well.

Urbana, O., April 10.—John Towler, twenty-five years old, the son of a merchant at Terre Haute, Ind., was buried alive at the bottom of a 75-foot well on the Busser farm, near here. He had gone down the well to brace the pump at the bottom, when the stone siding fell upon him, causing instant death.

INDIANA POLITICS

ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, April 10.—A report that the Indianapolis Brewers' Exchange is trying to weed out 200 objectionable saloons here so as to cut down the total to 540, was denied today. Some of the brewers said, however, that the objectionable places are being weeded out gradually. The brewers are reported to have agreed not to start any more places here. Carl Von Hake, Democratic county commissioner, declared today that he will not sign a license for a new saloon in Indianapolis as he thinks there are enough here now. A suit to test the county local option law has been filed at Princeton.

The "full crew" law enacted by the legislature in 1905 was upheld by the supreme court in an appeal of the Pennsylvania road from a decision compelling it to employ five men on a fast mail run between Richmond and Indianapolis. The company had an engineer, fireman, conductor and brakeman on the train, which consisted of seven mail cars, carrying no passengers. The law provides for five-men crews for all trains under fifty cars and six for larger trains. The Pennsylvania insisted that its mail train was equipped with special devices making the employment of an extra man on the crew unnecessary. It also held that an extra man would cause the crew to become less vigilant and the train was engaged by the government in carrying the mail and was engaged also in interstate commerce. The supreme court held that the "full crew" act had nothing to do with regulating commerce carried on trains, but is merely a police measure looking to the safety of citizens. The court asserted that the law does not unreasonably burden commerce nor infringe on authority asserted by congress.

The financial panic in 1908 hurt the matrimonial game in Indiana. The showing made is way below that of 1907. In 1908, according to a bulletin issued by the state statistician, there were 26,990 marriages in Indiana. Almost 3,000 more marriage ceremonies were performed in the state in 1907. There were 120 more divorces granted in 1908 than during the previous year, the total number of divorces granted being 4,253.

NEW LAWS IN EFFECT

Governor Marshall's Proclamation Is sued Officially Today.

Indianapolis, April 10.—The laws passed by the last legislature were proclaimed officially from the office of Governor Marshall today. Substantially the acts have been effective since early this week, when the last receipt for the books containing the statutes were received in the office of the secretary of state. The governor's proclamation was delayed, however, until today as a favor to some railroad officials who are affected by some of the new acts.

These new laws made it necessary for some of the roads to publish new tariff schedules, and the officials whose duty it is to make up the tariff sheets asked the governor to delay proclaiming the laws until they could be made out. Before leaving for New York Thursday the governor wrote the proclamation, and it was made official by his secretary today.

MAIL POUCH STOLEN

Valuable Registered Sack Missing
From Lake Shore Flyer.

Hammond, Ind., April 10.—Inspector A. N. Burr, of Ft. Wayne, and secret service men have been summoned here to solve the mystery of the theft of a mail pouch from a Lake Shore "flyer" en route to Chicago. The pouch was filled with registered matter. The mail sack was supposed to be taken on the "flyer" by an automatic catcher at Gary, but it was found in the woods a mile from the Lake Shore railroad between Gary and Hammond by a farmer who notified the postal authorities. The postmaster of Gary admits that there was valuable registered matter for Chicago in the pouch, but refuses to say how much. The pouch had been slashed open and its contents taken.

THEY DANCED UP AND DOWN

Republican Congressmen Give Vent to Their Joy.

TARIFF BILL PASSED EASILY

By a Vote of 217 to 161 the Payne Revenue Measure Was Adopted by the House of Representatives, the Majority Members Giving Way to the Exuberance of Their Feelings by Dancing Up and Down and Cheering Lustily.

Washington, April 10.—After three weeks of consideration the Payne bill was passed by the house of representatives last night by a vote of 217 to 161. One Republican, Austin (Tenn.), voted against the measure and four Democrats, all from Louisiana, Messrs. Broussard, Estopinal, Pujo and Wickliffe, voted for it. An attempt by Champ Clark, the minority leader, to recommit the bill with instructions signally failed.

The day was filled with excitement from the moment the session began at noon until the minute of adjournment. The members were keyed up to the highest pitch and a practically full membership remained on duty throughout. The final vote demonstrated the capacity of the Republican organization to get together. The situation with respect to lumber was greatly relieved to the Republican leaders when it became manifest that the advocates of the proposition placing it on the free list were in the minority. Because of that fact, Mr. Fitzgerald (N. Y.), charged that a deal had been made whereby free lumber was to be voted down and the rates on barley and barley malt increased, and this notwithstanding the denials of Messrs. Mann, (Ill.), and Cushman, (Wash.), who offered the barley amendments.

The general public was greatly interested in the proceedings and the galleries were packed. Both the diplomatic and executive reservations likewise were fully occupied, Mrs. Taft being among those present.

When the bill actually was passed the Republicans cheered lustily, some dancing up and down the aisles and patting their fellow members on the back.

After adopting a resolution that until further ordered sessions shall be held only on Mondays and Thursdays the house at 8:20 p. m., adjourned.

If we just had all the money that we sunk in oil, banana plantations, gold mines and other grafts too numerous to mention, we could build two or three hot water heating plants and have a nice balance to subsidize a few factories and traction lines. Let us all now firmly resolve that in the future we will invest our surplus in Crawfordsville, where we can watch it.—Crawfordsville Journal. The above is good advice. There is not a town in the United States but that has lost thousands of dollars in foreign investment schemes.

An enterprising Indianapolis reporter has recently sent to several newspapers, three dispatches announcing Republican reorganization plans. The first declared that within 30 days a meeting of the State committee would be called, that State Chairman Goodrich would resign, and that his successor would be elected. The second announced that no such meeting or resignation would take place, that there had been much dissatisfaction with State Chairman Goodrich's conduct of the campaign, and that there was a widespread demand for early reorganization. The third dispatch which appeared a few days ago, announces that at the expiration of his present term State Chairman Goodrich will probably be a candidate to succeed himself, that resenting unfavorable criticism he will thus seek vindication.

The Indianapolis reporter who has been seeking political information has been misled, and has unintentionally gold-bricked the newspapers. The three conflicting reports from Indianapolis has been widely copied and commented upon, and misinformation and unjust criticism, and confusion have resulted.

The terms of the present officers of the Republican State organization will expire next January, when their successors will be re-elected. Long before the recent election, and since, the officers of the State organization have let it be known conclusively, that under no circumstances would they seek or accept re-election.

Within the past few days there met in Indianapolis, a number of representative Republican editors of Indiana—men who knew how the Republican pulse in their several communities. These editors were unanimous and free in declaring that no demand exists over the State for present reorganization of the party, and that no feeling of criticism or blame attaches to State Chairman Goodrich or to the State organization for the defeats at the recent election. In fact they declared, that quite the contrary sentiment prevails. In no Indiana campaign have Republican editors, the county chairman and county candidates and other Republican workers over the State been so close to, and so real a part of the State organization, attending its councils and helping frame and carry out party policies, as in the 1908 campaign. To say that the organization did not hold the confidence of the people is to say that the Republican press of the State, and the county chairmen and their fellow Republican workers in every county in Indiana, were not in touch with the rank and file of the party.

No State chairman in Indiana has ever shown more recognition to the country press, or sought and followed the counsels and held the confidence and esteem of the rank and file of the party, more than has State Chairman James P. Goodrich, and on every hand it is recognized by those who give the matter any thought, that the dispatches emanating from Indianapolis and carrying a different conclusion, are inspired, and the motive is neither to promote Republican harmony nor success.

Two chief factors contributed to Republican defeats in Indiana last November: the temperance plank, and the jealousy between favored leaders within the party. A majority of the Republicans at the State convention demanded a plank pledging advance temperance legislation. Many of the minority placed their "liberal" views ahead of their loyalty to party, and voted the Democratic ticket. Many of the friends of one of the foremost Republicans of the State, jealous that their chief did not have more voice in the organization and more power with the delegates in the State convention, passed out the word to advance the interests of their faction within the party by defeating Republican nominees and discrediting the party organization.

During the months preceding the election these conditions were well known to the State committee and to thousands of loyal Republicans within the State, who in vain, made every effort to bring together the disintegrated factions within the party. In no part of the State was the party disloyalty more marked, from both causes, than in Marion county, and that fact helps explain the recent words of discontent and criticism coming from that quarter.

The Republican party in Indiana is like a man who is critically sick. Now is no time for evasive words, insincerity, or the presentation of fanciful theories. There is nothing that will tend more to bring about an early understanding among Republicans than an honest diagnosis of the case, in language so plain that every Republican in the State may understand the trouble. This diagnosis should then be coupled with a prescription which forbids further factional fights and efforts to get even; and which demands a singleness of purpose on the part of all Republican leaders and followers alike, to place the party's good ahead of the interests of any person, or faction within the party.

When the regular time comes for the reorganization of the Republican party within the State of Indiana, it will be reorganized from the precincts up, and by the whole people of the party. The 1908 campaign is past, with its unfortunate outcome, the result of unfortunate conditions, and it should now be forgotten, except for the lessons to be learned. Those who deserted Republicanism because of the local option plank, receive nothing but the ashes of disappointment for their plans. They should all return to their party and stand loyally by it. The followers of favorite leaders, and the State boasts many worthy of leadership, may spar and wrestle for advantages in organization positions, and in nominating conventions—this has always been done and is a natural result of American political methods—but the most extreme factionalist must let nothing stand in the way of his party fealty if he would serve the true interests of all the Republicans of the State, and deserve for his friends and his leadership, the confidence of fellow Republicans within the State and nation.

The Republicans of Indiana have a plurality sufficient to reclaim the legislature, elect a United States Senator and the congressional delegation, and to control the affairs of the State in 1910 if they will stand loyally to Republican principles, and accept the will of the majority of Republicans as the voice of the party. The Republicans of Indiana may have success if they will but deserve it. Let each individual Republican, at the proper time, take renewed and active interest in his party's welfare and in the vindication of Republican principles; let jealousy and vindictiveness and disappointment be thrown to the winds, and no Republican will have reason to be dissatisfied with the result of the election in 1910.

Those Awful Hats

See the ladies with the hats—
Stunning hats—
Looming up in battlements and slant-down in flaps!
How they flutter, flutter, flutter,
At the corner of the street!
And the ones who wear 'em utter
Words as soft as melted butter
To the friends they chance to meet
As they flash, flash, flash,
In a sort of shiny hash
Till you'd think a flock of blue and green and pink and purple bats
Were the hats, hats, hats,
Hats, hats, hats,
The fearful and the cheerful string of hats!

FREEZE LAST NIGHT CAUSED BIG SCARE

Many Are of the Opinion That Fruit and Berries Were Injured to Some Extent.

OTHERS PREDICT A GOOD CROP

While the freeze of last night may not have done any damage to the fruit and berries, it has caused a good sized scare among those who have orchards and berry bushes. There is a wide difference of opinion as to the result of the freeze. Some say the fruit and berries especially have been injured to some extent.

The more conservative, however, are strongly of the opinion that the damage is slight if any at all has been done. The unusually cool weather of this season has held the fruit back and the buds have not developed enough to be damaged except by an extremely hard freeze. In fact those who are in a position to know, predict the most bountiful fruit crop this year we have had for many years unless a later frost or freeze destroys the prospects.

LOCAL GIRL IS WRITING OPERA'S

Charlotte Sleeth Receives a Commission to Deliver Score, Lyrics, and Libretto in July.

AN ORDER FOR A BIG STAR

Rushville Girl Has Also Won Recognition Revising and Putting Finishing Touches on Other Work.

The fame of a Rushville girl will soon spread throughout the land for fresh laurels promise soon to crown the efforts of Miss Charlotte Sleeth, now residing in New York City. For many years Miss Sleeth, who is a daughter of the well known lawyer, George Sleeth, now deceased, lived at the pretentious old home place in West First street, and gained quite an enviable reputation early in life as a soprano soloist. She studied in New York under the best masters for a number of years, where later she opened a studio and taught voice. Miss Sleeth has given up that field of endeavor, at least for the present, and bids fair to make a name for herself as a composer and writer of light musical comedies and musical plays. At present she has several irons in the fire—like all true and ambitious geniuses—and so well was her first work in the revising and working over of musical comedies like "The Three Twins," one of the best shows of the past two years (and which is appearing at Indianapolis this week) that her services are in demand. It is a struggle for many talented people in a metropolis like Gotham to gain recognition and even have their efforts given a hearing, but the managers, who were acquainted with the artistic final touches given to several productions by Miss Sleeth, at once sought to enlist her services. She has signed a contract to deliver a musical play, a unique creation, by July 1, and the leading role will be taken by Jules Jose, a man who occupies a peculiar position in the musical and dramatic world. But recently Edison had Mr. Jose and Mr. Caruso, the world's famous tenor, sing for the best set of records ever made for a phonograph. Both the singers and the records are being widely advertised in all the leading magazines. Mr. Jose will tour the western coast with the new musical play as Miss Sleeth is writing it with an atmosphere that will appeal to that locale.

With her several years' study of music abroad in Paris, and the wide knowledge she possesses of human nature, Miss Sleeth is peculiarly fitted for the work she has undertaken. And when managers (theatrical managers are a shrewd and cold-blooded lot) will pay big commissions in advance, as they have in this instance, when they have only seen the brief outline of a scenario, it is reasonable to presume that they have already recognized the talent and are willing to burn incense at her altar—they burn very little money in this wise.

Miss Sleeth has written some short stories for magazines recently, and while she will probably put in much of her time in the future in writing and composing, she still continues to teach vocal lessons and keeps her studio. Along a lighter musical line Miss Sleeth has collaborated with a famous New York writer and is assisting with the score and libretto of "The Girl and the Mantillo," which will be put on for a summer run along the Great White Way.

Her sisters, the Misses Nora and Mary Sleeth will leave here May 1 and join their sister in New York City, where they will remain this summer and where they may decide to reside permanently.

SAFEGUARD FOR THE COAL MINERS

Four Rescue Stations Have Been Established by Leading Coal Mining Companies.

MORE ARE CONTEMPLATED

Corps of Men Trained Daily in Use of Oxygen Helmet for Artificial Breathing.

Four stations for the training of miners in rescue work have been established recently by the big coal companies of the United States, and several more are in contemplation. This is a direct outcome of the demonstrations in rescue work being made by the United States geological survey, the technologic branch, at its experiment station in Pittsburgh and at the subrescue station in Urbana, Ill.

"The fact that these stations have been established is gratifying to the geological survey," said Director George Otis Smith the other day at Washington. "It shows the interest the operators and mine owners are taking in this humane movement, and it is bound to result in a decrease in the number of deaths in the mines. The sole purpose of the government in taking up this work was to demonstrate its usefulness. It is not the intention to make the rescue station work permanent."

Perhaps the most complete of these private stations is that of the Frick Coke company, which employs 30,000 men. The station has been erected at the Leisengrinning mine, near Connellsville, Pa., in easy reach of all of the Frick company's mines. There a corps of six men is being trained in the use of the oxygen helmet, a device that admits of artificial breathing for two hours in the most deadly gases known. In order that the men may have practical experience in the use of these helmets a part of the station has been devoted to an air tight room which is filled with gases that will not support life. A daily drill is being given in this gas filled room, and they are gaining confidence in the use of the helmets. Within a short time the corps will visit the government experiment station at Pittsburgh, where the members will receive further instruction by the federal experts.

Whenever a disaster occurs in any of the Frick company's mines the rescue corps will respond at once and will immediately enter the mine for the purpose of bringing to the surface miners who have been injured or are unconscious from the effects of the gases. With these helmets the rescuers can enter any gas filled mine where it would be sure death for any unequipped miner to go. In many disasters the men fortunate enough to be outside of the mine when the explosion occurred have had to remain at the surface for hours, waiting for the ventilation to drive the gases out, knowing all the time that their comrades were dying.

A second rescue station has been established by the Consolidated Coal Companies of Maryland at the mine of the Fairmont company, Fairmont, W. Va. A trained corps of helmeted men is ready for any emergency in this field.

A third station has been erected by the Pittsburgh-Buffalo company at the ill fated Marianna mine in Pennsylvania, which last November had an explosion with a loss of 150 lives. Already this station has a complete corps of six highly trained men who know how to use the oxygen helmets.

A fourth station is at the Zeigler mines in Zeigler, Ill. This company has a trained corps of six men, all picked for their coolness, courage and daring, for these elements are necessary in rescue work.

J. W. Paul, who has charge of the rescue work for the government, left Washington recently for Europe, where he will study rescue work at the European stations.

"In the short time we have been operating we have saved the lives of six men," said Mr. Paul, "and if we did nothing more the results would warrant everything that has been done so far by the United States in trying to reduce the accident death rate in the mines. But I am satisfied more good will come from our efforts. The four stations just established will be the means of saving the lives of many miners, for we all know that many a poor fellow imprisoned in a mine filled with the dread fire-damp has lived in agony for hours before he died. I understand that the operators are to establish many more stations."

OPPOSED BRASS BAND METHODS

Connersville Did Not Receive Evangelist Very Kindly Who Started With a Hurrah.

HAD A MAN IN A BARREL

Who Paraded up and Down Streets Advertising the Proposed "Great Revival."

The Connersville Courier has the following regarding the recent visit of an evangelist to Connersville:

"Before leaving the city 'Billy' Williams, the minstrel, had a great many cruel things to say about Connersville people.

"'Billy's' specific complaint was that the Christians of this city did not give him their moral support.

"In making this complaint Williams took too much for granted. He banked too strongly upon the comedy that is prevalent in greater or less degree in all phases of human endeavor.

"But 'Billy' Williams was mistaken. He was kindly received by the good people of this city. He was ministered unto and in a measure indorsed by the church people.

"Then 'Billy' tried to mix minstrel methods with religion and spoil it all. He made a spectacle of religion by sending out a loud-mouthed barker, clothed in a barrel, to herald his meeting. This grotesque character went up and down the streets with his features masqued in burnt cork and barked out the 'Billy' meetings with the lustiness and shamelessness of a street fair fakir.

"If Williams presumed that Connersville people would be pleased or even amused by such methods, he misjudged their sanctity and common sense. Religion has not as yet fallen to the level of such outlandish methods. If the time ever comes when stunts of this character must be employed to attract people to the sanctuary, then it will be time to make an end of religion altogether."

MEETINGS CLOSE SUNDAY

Yeuell Revival Claims 120 Additions to Christian Church.

The Yeuell meetings, which have been in progress for several weeks, will close Sunday night, says the Connersville Examiner. To date there have been 120 additions to the church. Tonight Mr. Yeuell will deliver his "Ben Hur" lecture, illustrated with stereopticon pictures. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

WALKING TO BEAT WESTON.

Sergeant Walsh Expects to Pass Him on San Francisco Hike.

Sergeant John Walsh of the United States army passed through New Haven, Conn., early the other evening on his walk from Boston to San Francisco. He says he means to overtake and precede Edward Payson Weston, who has an eight days' start on him. Walsh wears a khaki fatigue uniform, with a knapsack over his shoulders, and carries a blackthorn cane presented to him by the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Boston.

Walsh reached Boston early last September after a trip of seventy-three walking days across the continent, made as the result of a $5,000 wager. He says he is the first man to cross the continent on foot. He is fifty-seven years old and has been in the army twenty-seven years.

Prediction as to the World's End.

Professor Percival Lowell of Harvard university predicts the death of the world in one of four ways. He thinks it will come through collision with a tramp star, by collision of the sun and some other planet, by paralysis through the force of tidal friction from sun and moon or by heart failure, by which the earth will lose its water and air by their gradual escape into space.

Survival of the Fittest.

The superintendent of a manufacturing company in Manchester, Conn., recently advertised, one day only, for twenty men to whitewash the inside walls of the new factory. Three hundred men applied the next morning. The superintendent threw twenty whitewash brushes from a window, and the men scrambled for them. The twenty that got the brushes got jobs.

BY THE WAYSIDE

There are too many grandstand players. We have them in every walk of life. If you watch a base ball game you will see a fellow who wears a loud sweater and who poses in the field. He will run like a deer when it is necessary. When he makes a poor slide he gets up and limps away as though he was badly injured, and if he had not been he would have made the base. The grandstand player is in church and in the lodge. When things are quiet and there is only the mid-week prayer meeting, the grandstand player has nothing to say. But when the church is full and something is up, Mr. Grandstand Player is sure to get up, and with a flourish of trumpets, make a great bluff. He's at church socials and tells us all about it. He never does any work, and he manages to get his hands on all the honors floating around. He never gives a cent to any good cause, without first standing on top of his house and yelling so the town will notice him. The grandstand player works hard to fool the people and thinks he is fooling the Lord. He may occasionally make his bluff work with some unsuspecting brother, but he hasn't fooled the Lord for a second.

STUDIED BIBLE DRIVING HORSE

Harry Ross, Who Became an Evangelist After a Trying Time, Will Now Marry.

LOCATED IN WASHINGTON

Where he Will Wed Monday—Worked in Rushville on a Grocery Store Delivery Wagon.

Harry Ross, formerly a delivery boy for the A. B. Flinn grocery store here, and who carried a bible along with him at all times for study, and later took up evangelistic work, is to be married next Monday in Vancouver, Washington.

Coincident with this is the fact that his niece eloped from here last night after marrying James Foley, a plumber.

The Connersville Courier says of the Ross wedding:

Harry Ross, of Vancouver, Wash., and Miss Elizabeth Gleck, of New York City, will be married at Vancouver next Monday morning.

Mr. Ross possesses quite a talent as a singer and has developed it until now he is one of the leading singing evangelists of the country.

He is now engaged with Rev. Shannon in a great meeting in Vancouver. The meeting is three weeks old and there have been 535 accessions.

A soldiers training school is located near and quite a number of them have been added, and this has aroused the indignation of the saloon men.

Miss Gleck, who will become the wife of Mr. Ross, left her home Monday and will arrive at Vancouver today.

She has held the position as overseer in a large glove factory. She is known as a Christian, a church worker and as having ability to preach. She is also a Bible scholar and musician of marked ability.

Mr. Ross and bride will return this summer to visit home-folk and old friends.

Harry's many friends here are surely proud of his success and feel proud of this community, that produced men who can go out and sing the gospel of salvation to a lost and sinning world.

He has eighteen chickens which were hatched in an incubator and since taking them he has reared them so far in an apparatus which is not heated at all, and notwithstanding the chickens were hatched a week ago they appear to be in the pink of condition at this time. It is said to be the first attempt to rear chickens by this method that has been made in this county.

AMUSEMENTS

Good crowds saw all of the shows last night and also the popular matinees this afternoon at the Vaudeville. The subjects that were shown this afternoon and will be given tonight are, "Telegraphic Warning" and "She Went to See The Devil Played." Both pictures are first class. Miss Clara Gregg will sing "The Witching Hour."

A good sized audience witnessed "Uncle Josh Perkins" at the Grand theater last night. The extremely funny character Uncle Josh never failed to bring a laugh. Hiram Green, the farm hand with his characteristic "What d' you want" was the bright and shining star of the company. The troupe went to Knightstown for an engagement tonight.

The new Palace theater pleased large and appreciative audiences at all of the shows last night with the film "A Day at the Capitol." The familiar (?) scenes around Washington were especially interesting. Mr. Jack Surat sang the illustrated song "Loving Eyes" and a popular piece with spot light effect. The same program will be given tonight.

On of the best of the merry, jingling, mirth provoking musical comedy hits, "Two Merry Tramps" will be the attraction at the Grand theater next Tuesday night. A company of eighteen farceurs, including a chorus of exceptionally pretty girls, is promised.

"The Colored Stenographer" and "Mary Jane's Lovers," are the titles of the subjects to be shown at the Grand theater tonight. Miss Iva Brown will sing "Somewhere There is Someone I'd Like to Know."

REWARD OFFERED FOR THE FINDER

New Palestine People Know Nothing of the Discovery of $10,000.

SEEMS TO BE A MISTAKE

Reported That Money Was Robbed From Bank in Piqua Last December.

The Greenfield Reporter adds the following chapter to the story from Piqua, Ohio, that $10,000 had been found near New Palestine. It was supposed to be the money taken from the bank in Piqua last December, when five men shot up the town. There is talk now of offering a reward for the man who found the money.

"In efforts to verify this report people at New Palestine and other towns along the C. H. & D. railroad were communicated with.

"A business man at New Palestine stated that to his knowledge not one word had been uttered in New Palestine about the remarkable find. Every person that was called expressed surprise when informed of the incident and some of them were not able to speak for several moments when they realized what a large amount of money was said to have been found.

"Now that the money is said to have been found it might be good policy for some one that is interested to offer a reward to some one to discover the identity of the lucky individual. It is not believed that the good people of New Palestine would let anyone stay in their midst with such an enormous amount of money in their possession without depositing it in the town bank, but if the people there have the habit of carrying that much money on their person it might prove to be a lucrative field for life insurance agents."

Orange County Prosecutor In- structed to Get Busy.

MORE RUMORS OF GAMBLING

With Information of an Unquestionable Character in His Possession, Attorney-General Bingham Calls the Governor's Attention to a Situation Calling for Action on the Part of the Executive.—This Information is Then Sent to Prosecutor of Orange County.

Indianapolis, April 10.—Attorney-General Bingham has sent to Governor Marshall a letter in which he furnished the name of a man, who he said, is in a position to give information concerning gambling at French Lick. Acting on instructions given by the governor before he left for New York, his secretary, Mark Thistlethwaite, forwarded the letter to Frank Huston, prosecuting attorney for Washington and Orange counties, together with the governor's order to take action on the information it contained. Mr. Huston was reminded of the announced policy of the governor either to employ another lawyer to handle such cases or to turn them over to the attorney-general when the prosecuting attorney failed to do his duty.

The man named by the attorney-general is the Rev. B. M. Nyce, of Muncie. He is not, Attorney-General Bingham says, the man from whom he received the card announcing gambling, which he forwarded to the governor Wednesday afternoon and with regard to which the governor asked for his informant's name. The man who sent the card in, Bingham says, refused to allow the use of his name.

"DUCKS" UNDER FIRE

Washington Preacher Found Local Sentiment too Strong for Comfort.

Washington, Ind., April 10.—The Rev. E. E. Davidson, accused of having tricked Miss Laura Bunn Clark into a marriage at St. Louis, last December, has left this city. Members of Davidson's congregation are said to have advised him to leave the city until the feeling has abated and he consented, but when they were told that he had driven out of the city instead of taking a train, they expressed surprise. Though not confirmed, it is understood Mr. Davidson disposed of his personal property, realizing $400 from the sale. Friends declare he will return to fight the suit, but the general impression is he has gone for good and will permit the case to go by default. Feeling is running high against the accused minister and public sentiment, which at first favored the minister, has turned and he is the object of criticism in almost every home in the city. However, despite the evidence that has been piled up to establish his guilt, many members of his congregation refuse to accept the charges and declare the minister will have to acknowledge his guilt before they are convinced. Authorities here say the latest developments point almost beyond the shadow of a doubt to the guilt of Mr. Davidson. Laura Bunn Clark, the young woman in the case, has produced a number of letters written to her, while she was staying at the Grand Hotel in Cincinnati, under the name of "Mrs. E. E. Davis," and they leave no doubt that Davidson was with her in St. Louis.

FIR AS PAPER SOURCE.

Minnesota Professor Claims to Utilize Sawdust Also.

A chemical discovery which is expected to make wood pulp and paper products many times more plentiful and much cheaper than they are at present was recently announced at the State university in Minneapolis, Minn.

The discoverer is Dr. George B. Frankfurter, dean of the College of Chemistry, who has worked on the process for more than twelve years. The discovery makes possible the manufacture of paper from fir trees, sawdust and waste timber.

The pulp for paper at present is made only from spruce. The supply of fir is 100 times greater than the supply of spruce, and Dr. Frankfurter and those associated with him say the new pulp process will be more economical.

As proof of the value of his discovery Dr. Frankfurter shows a table recording his experiment with one cord of fir wood. The wood cost him $7.50, and from it he obtained wood pulp worth $39, turpentine worth $41.60 and byproducts of a lesser value. The waste that is now burned or thrown away, Dr. Frankfurter says, can be used as well as the fresh cut wood.

WAFTING OF KISSES.

Professor Starr Tells of Graceful Method Adopted by Mexicans.

Professor Frederick Starr of the University of Chicago, who attracted attention recently by a prophecy that former President Roosevelt would never return alive from Africa, has again come into public notice, this time as an exponent of the fine art of "kiss throwing."

"Young men of this country do not know how to throw a kiss gracefully," he says in a lecture prepared for students on "Mexico Today." "It takes a young Mexican to perform the act gracefully. He brings the tips of his fingers together, touches them gently with his lips and, spreading his hand out as he makes the throw, wafts five sweet kisses to his ladylove by five different routes."

Easter Flower Gifts in Mexico.

"In my country," said a Mexican matron, "Easter is the season when one sends flowers to every friend and neighbor and to all the strangers within the gates. A guest in a hotel may find his or her room submerged in flowers on Easter morning. It is our way of wishing them welcome and answers to the 'Merry Christmas' which is so delightful to hear in northern countries. We are also beginning to send Easter eggs to children, but this is the result of following the customs of the United States and Europe. Some of the Mexican natives resent any intrusion on making Easter anything but what we most prize, the feast of flowers."

MAKING OF A SAINT.

First Methods Adopted In Joan of Arc's Beatification.

MOST IMPOSING CEREMONY.

Immense Amount of Information Must Be Collected—Ten Years Spent Proving Maid of Orleans Performed Miracles.

Large numbers of English and French people will soon gather at St. Peter's, in Rome, to witness a ceremony which is of interest to both nations. April 18 (Low Sunday) is the date fixed for the beatification of Joan of Arc, who nearly 500 years ago fought for her country against England and who, Englishmen remember with regret, was put to death at Rouen. When the deed was done it is recorded that one of the English soldiers said, "We have burned a saint."

Now, after a lapse of all these years, the Roman Catholic church is about to take the first step toward making her a saint. After the ceremony April 18 she will be called "Blessed Joan of Arc," and perhaps ten years hence, if the church so decrees, may be again promoted and become "St. Joan."

The process of making a saint is an interesting one and may be called a series of trials, at which all known details of the life of the person are discussed. As a rule, it is the bishop of the town in which the person was born who makes the first move. He obtains the support of a number of other bishops, who sign a petition to the pope asking permission for the trial. If the pope gives his sanction the moving bishop calls a meeting of influential dignitaries, priests and laymen, who may have special knowledge. At this first meeting methods may be discussed for obtaining the necessary evidence. In the case of Joan of Arc ten years were spent gathering the facts. In all cases an immense amount of information must be collected.

In the course of time a report is prepared which is sent to Rome and is considered by the body called the "congregation of rites." More delay will come here. Possibly the report may be referred back to the makers for more information. But even if this is not necessary the congregation of rites may keep it under consideration for four or five years.

It may decide that the life of the person was a very worthy and very holy one, but it requires much more than that. It must be proved to its satisfaction that miracles have been performed. The congregation of rites requires evidence of not fewer than three miracles. In the case of "miraculous cures" it must be shown that doctors have pronounced the case hopeless or that diseases have been cured which doctors call incurable. Usually the report contains particulars of a number of "miracles" from which the congregation of rites may make a selection.

The three chosen among those attributed to Joan of Arc relate to the curing of nuns belonging to different communities, who are said to have obtained relief from their diseases by her intercession. One of these nuns had suffered for years from cancer and was on the point of death when, it was claimed, she was instantly cured by a prayer of Joan of Arc.

When the congregation of rites has been satisfied as to the authenticity of three miracles they prepare their report, which is submitted to the pope, who considers it. There is then a gathering at the Vatican, to which the public is admitted. Cardinals and bishops are present, and a lawyer of the papal court reads out the decision. After this the ceremony of beatification generally takes place within a few months. It is held at St. Peter's at about 9 or 10 o'clock in the morning in the presence of the congregation of rites and numerous other dignitaries. The ceremony is performed before the altar of the chair of St. Peter, and as a rule it attracts many people.

The actual decree of beatification is read out by the "notary." It contains a brief account of the "trial" and also a short history of the life and announces that the holy father declares that this person is worthy of the worship (in correct technical sense) of the church and that henceforth the word "beata" (blessed) will be placed before the name.

When the ceremony of beatifying Joan of Arc takes place a big picture of "the Maid of Orleans" will be placed in front of the altar. This will be surrounded by flowers and electric lights and will be covered with curtains until the decree has been read. It will then be unveiled, and the electric lamps will throw a glare of light upon it while the "Te Deum" is sung and high mass celebrated. In the afternoon of the same day the pope will go to pray before the picture and will assist at the benediction of the blessed sacrament.

The process described seems elaborate, yet it is only the second step in making a saint. Perhaps ten or fifteen years hence Joan of Arc may be canonized, but before this can be done all the old routine must be passed again. More evidence of holiness will be required, three more miracles of the first order (making six in all) must be proved, and more elaborate reports must be prepared.

At the final ceremony of canonization the pope will be present, and the entire service will probably last for four or five hours. Then and not until then will Joan of Arc be a saint and be publicly venerated as such by Roman Catholics.

Hard Coal Operators and Miners In Deadlock.

NO NEAR STRIKE IN SIGHT

Unless the Operators Refuse to Permit the Miners to Work Without an Agreement, Operations in the Anthracite Field Will Continue Without Interruption.—Refusal to Recognize the Union, However, is a Point That Renders Situation Delicate.

Philadelphia, April 10.—After conferences extending over three days, the anthracite coal operators and the officials of the United Mine Workers of America, representing the miners, at which the question of a wage agreement was discussed to replace that brought about by the anthracite strike commission, the operators rejected the modified demands of the miners and the conference adjourned deadlocked.

There will be no strike inaugurated by the mine workers, however, and the only danger of a suspension of mining in the near future, according to the mine workers officials, arises from the possibility of the refusal of the operators to permit the miners to work without an agreement.

The modified demands of the miners requested that the mine workers be recognized as "anthracite workers" and that conditions regarding new work by the miners in which wages were involved and which would give increased pay to the miners be improved.

Although the entire proposition of the miners as modified was finally rejected, the operators gave out a statement in New York, where they went immediately following the conference, in which they claim that they offered to submit the "new work" complaint to the conciliation board, created by the anthracite strike commission.

When the attention of President Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America was called to the operators' statement last night he said:

"I have no comment to make."

When pressed as to his views concerning the operators' concession regarding new work, he said:

"Bugs!"

He would not discuss the matter.

SALVATION ARMY HEAD IS EIGHTY YEARS OLD

Celebrations by His Followers
Throughout the Earth.

London, April 10.—From all parts of the civilized and uncivilized world into which the Salvation Army has extended its work have come today letters, telegrams and cablegrams of congratulation for General William Booth on the completion of his eightieth year. Thousands of members of the army have assembled here to celebrate the anniversary, and advices received here indicate that the day is being celebrated by the army throughout the world.

The army's building is the scene of the steady arrival and departure of delegations bearing to him good wishes from many quarters of the globe.

General Booth is taking advantage of his jubilee to advance the interests of his latest project for spreading the work of the army. He is advocating the establishment of the World University of Humanity, with branches in Great Britain, America and elsewhere, whose purpose it shall be to train men and women for work among the poor, the down-trodden and the churchless. He asks $5,000,000 to make his plans effective.

LIBERTY BELL PROPOSITION.

To Stop Its Crack and Make Bell of as Good Sound as in 1776.

Shall the crack in the Liberty bell be repaired? Representatives of an old, world firm of bellmakers have laid before Mayor Reyburn of Philadelphia a proposition to make the repairs so that once again the people may hear peals from the bell which announced to a new nation its independence. They have a secret process, but are willing to enter bonds in any amount and to do the work without taking the relic from Independence hall.

Mayor Reyburn is anxious that the people shall express their opinion, but his personal view is that there may be a general sentiment against repairs. Said he the other day: "There is a historic sentiment connected with the crack itself. The bell cracked at the funeral services of Chief Justice Marshall, and every schoolboy who has seen a picture of the bell knows of that crack. Still, it might be of interest to the people to hear the Liberty bell peal exactly as it did in 1776, and the bellmakers assure me that the repairs they will make will not make the slightest difference in the tone of the bell."

WEARY OF ODD NAME

Why the Eggs Will Be Ecks Soon as Easter Is Over.

FOUND THEIR CASING IRKSOME

Restaurant Man Asked Court to Free Him and His Wife From Unrelieved Jest of Facetious Friends—Says He's "Done on Both Sides All Right."

At this season of the year, with eggs leading the batting order at every breakfast table and in a great many homes playing three games a day, it seemed particularly apropos that Mr. and Mrs. Ulrich Egg of New York city should ask Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman for permission to "lay" Egg aside and substitute Eck. They gave so many eggcellent reasons that Justice O'Gorman granted the request the other day and set April 29 as the date on which they might tear off their present shells. Then they will be dropped Eggs.

Most persons get tired of eggs about Easter, but when you use the same Egg for thirty-four years, as Egg has done, it is bound to become monotonous. Mrs. Egg has been wearing the name about three years, and she recently admitted she was only waiting for the opportunity to scramble out from under it. Not that their friends have grown tired of the Eggs, but the Eggs feel that they have furnished the comedy for their friends just about long enough. Both are perfectly good Eggs, but say they are almost cracked from listening to the feeble jokes cracked at their expense.

Each has a splendid sense of humor, and this is the only thing that has prevented them boiling over on more than one occasion. It didn't help matters any to have Egg in the restaurant business, and in his petition to the court asking for permission to shed his name he set forth a list of annoyances which proves that he has Job looking like a nervous bridegroom at a church wedding. Mrs. Egg presides over a fashionable dressmaking establishment, and she couldn't recall a single instance where her name had helped her any. She is a handsome woman and laughed merrily while her husband discussed the situation with a reporter.

"I've been in hot water ever since I've had the name," said Egg.

"Then you must be hard boiled by this time," said the reporter.

"I'm done on both sides all right," laughed Egg. "In Switzerland, where we come from, the name is pronounced

Grand Theatre, Tuesday April 13th

Eck, and, besides, it has a different meaning."

"How did you come to marry your husband?" Mme. Egg was asked.

"I was always fond of Eggs," she said, "and I guess that had something to do with it."

"I'm pretty much of a nest egg," was Egg's next contribution. Here his wife gave her Egg a nudge that threatened to break it.

"Are there any small Eggs?" asked the reporter, joining in the cackle.

"Not yet," came in chorus. "Guess if we did have three or four children we'd be known as the half dozen Eggs."

"I think I better beat it," said the reporter, "before I'm whipped to a froth."

"Won't you have a little refreshment before you go?" asked the boss of the house.

"If it's all the same to you I'll have sherry and egg," said the reporter.

"Make mine an egg shake," laughed Mme. Egg.

"Do you think you're going to like your new name?"

"It will be hard getting used to it for awhile, but anything is better than Egg. I tried the new one on several friends today, and they thought I had the hiccoughs."

After wishing Mr. and Mrs. Eck as much prosperity under their new name as they have had under the old one the reporter withdrew, feeling as though he had been poaching on their good nature. They live in a fine brownstone "crate" and have the confidence of all their neighbors, which is more than some eggs can boast.

Just one paragraph from the petition to the court answers Shakespeare's query as to what's in a name:

"That his present name of Egg causes him and his wife a great deal of trouble and annoyance and humiliation among his and her friends and acquaintances; that would be facetious friends and acquaintances invariably ask him, after they are well enough acquainted with him, whether he is hard or soft boiled or fried or scrambled, or whether he is fried on one side or both sides, or whether he is only an omelet.

"That those acquaintances who have since become enemies usually refer to him as good, bad or rotten, with different inflections, according as they desire to be ironical or brutally frank."—New York World.

New German Salutation.
A curious society has recently been formed at Darmstadt, in Hesse. Its object is to promote the substitution of the military salute for the present mode of salutation among civilians. Instead of the present method of raising one's hat, the Hessians—or at least a certain proportion of them—would like to see the general adoption of the German military salute, consisting of bringing the hand extended, with fingers close together, to the edge of one's hat. The only reason given for this strange predilection is that the new salutation would be identical with that used in the time of Arminius.

NOT SAFE TO LET CASTRO RETURN

This Is the View Our Government Takes of It.

MAY HAVE TO FIND A ST. HELENA

The Interposition of This Government to Keep Castro Out of Venezuela and the Disinclination of the Powers Having Possessions in the Caribbean May Require the Selection of an International Asylum For This Disturber of the Peace.

Washington, April 9.—The efforts of the American government to keep former President Castro out of Venezuela and away from the nearby mainland and islands have every indication of being crowned with success.

Most of the powers having possessions in that part of the world have indicated to the state department that Castro's presence is not wanted within their boundaries and they are willing to acquiesce in the desire of the United States that he be removed from the scene of his former prestige.

Notwithstanding Castro's deposition as president, he has still a great many warm adherents in his native country and it is realized here that his return might be made the occasion of a demonstration resulting in the re-establishment of unsettled conditions. This government feels that Castro ought not to be allowed to return to Venezuela or to be permitted to make his headquarters at any of the surrounding ports.

The Feeling in Trinidad.
Port of Spain, Trinidad, April 9.—Public opinion here generally favors the exclusion of Castro. Although not in keeping with the English traditions, it is recognized that this action was taken for the maintenance of peace and good relations with the neighboring republics. During Castro's presidency, trade and commerce between Trinidad and Venezuela were practically destroyed and only recently have commercial relations been re-established. The police have taken strong measures looking to the prevention of any conspiracy here. The two American warships North Carolina and Montana are awaiting instructions here.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a hollow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known composition and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

Polly of the Circus

BY MARGARET MAYO
COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

CHAPTER XII.

ONLY days followed Polly's desertion of the parsonage. Mandy went about her duties very quietly, feeling that the little comments which once amused the pastor had now become an interruption to thoughts in which she had no part. He would sit for hours with his head in his hands, taking no notice of what passed before him. She tried to think of new dishes to tempt his appetite and shook her head sadly as she bore the untasted food back to the kitchen.

She sometimes found a portfolio of drawings lying open upon his study table. She remembered the zeal with which he had planned to remodel the church and parsonage when he first came to them, how his enthusiasm had gradually died for lack of encouragement and how he had at last put his books in a cupboard, where they grew dusty from long neglect. She marveled at their reappearance now, but something in his set, faraway look made her afraid to inquire. Thus she went on from day to day, growing more impatient with Hasty and more silent with the pastor.

Mandy needed humor and companionship to oil the wheels of her humdrum life. There was no more laughter in the house, and she began to droop.

Polly had been away from the parsonage a month when the complacency of the village was again upset by the arrival of the "Great American Circus."

There were many callers at the parsonage that day, for speculation was now at fever heat about the pastor. "Will he try to see her?" "Has he forgotten her?" and "What did he ever find in her?" were a few of the many questions that the women were asking each other. Now that the cause of their envy was removed they would gladly have reinstated the pastor as their idol, for, like all truly feminine souls, they could not bear to see a man unhappy without wishing to comfort him, nor happy unless they were the direct cause of his state. "How dare any man be happy without me?" has been the cry of each woman since Eve was created to mate with Adam.

Douglas had held himself more and more aloof from the day of Polly's disappearance. He expressed no opinion about the deacons or their recent disapproval of him. He avoided meeting them oftener than duty required, and Strong felt so uncomfortable and tongue tied in his presence that he, too, was glad to make their talks as few as possible.

Nothing was said about the pastor's plans for the future or about his continued connection with the church, and the inquisitive sisterhood was on the point of exploding from an overaccumulation of unanswered questions.

He delivered his sermons conscientiously, called upon his poor, listened to the sorrows, real and fancied, of his parishioners and shut himself up with his books or walked alone on the hill behind the church.

THE G. P. McCARTY CO.

He had been absent all day when Mandy looked out on the circus lot for the dozenth time and saw that the afternoon performance was closing. It had driven her to desperation to learn that Miss Polly was not in the parade that morning and to know that the pastor had made no effort to find out about her. For weeks both she and Hasty had hoped that the return of the circus might bring Polly back to them, but now it was nearly night and there had been no word from her. Why didn't she come running in to see them, as Mandy had felt so sure she would? Why had the pastor stayed away on the hills all day?

Unanswered questions were always an abomination to Mandy, so finally she drew a quarter from the knotted gingham rag that held her small wad of savings and told Hasty to "go long to de show an' find out 'bout Miss Polly."

She was anxiously waiting for him when Deacon Strong knocked at the door for the second time that afternoon.

"Is Mr. Douglas back yet?" he asked. "No, sah, he ain't," said Mandy very shortly. She felt that Strong and Elverson had been "a-tryin' to spy on de parson all day," and she resented their visits more than she usually did.

"What time are you expectin' him?" "I don't nebbber spec' Massa Douglas till I sees him."

Strong grunted uncivilly and went down the steps. She saw from the window that he met Elverson in front of the church.

"Dey sure am a-meanin' trouble," she mumbled.

The band had stopped playing; the last of the audience had straggled down the street. She opened the door and stood on the porch; the house seemed to suffocate her. What was keeping Hasty?

He came at last, but Mandy could tell from his gait that he brought unwelcome news.

"Ain't she dar?"

"She's a-trabbelin' wid 'em, Mandy, but she didn't done ride."

"See heah, Hasty Jones, is dat ere chile sick?"

"I don't rightly know," said Hasty. "A great big man, what wore clothes like a gemmen, comed out wid a whip in his hand an' says as how he's 'bliged to 'nounce anudder gal in Miss Polly's place. An' den he says as how de udder gal was jes' as good, an' den ever'body look disappointed like, an' den out comes de udder gal on a hoss an' do tricks, an' I ain't heard no more 'bout Miss Polly."

"She's sick, dat's what I says," Mandy declared excitedly, "an' somebody's got to do somethin'!"

"I done all I knowed," drawled Hasty, fearing that Mandy was regretting her twenty-five cent investment.

"Go 'long out an' fix up dat 'ere kitchen fire," was Mandy's impatient reply. "I got to keep dem vittels warm for Massa John."

She wished to be alone, so that she could think of some way to get hold of Polly. "Dat baby faced mornin' glory done got Mandy all wobbly 'bout de heart," she declared to herself as she crossed to the window for a sight of the pastor.

It was nearly dark when she saw him coming slowly down the path from the hill. She lighted the study lamp, rearranged the cushions and tried to make the room look cheery for his entrance.

"She's sick, dat's what I says."

"Is 'frail yo's mighty tired," she said.

"Oh, no," answered Douglas absently. "Mebbe yo'd like Mandy to be sarvin' your supper in here tonight. It's more cheerful."

He crossed to the window and looked out upon the circus lot. The flare of the torches and the red fire came up to meet his pale, tense face. "How like the picture of thirteen months ago!" he thought, and old Toby's words came back to him—"The show has got to go on."

He longed to have done with dreams and speculation, to feel something tangible, warm and real within his grasp. "I can't go on like this!" he cried. "I can't!" He turned from the window and walked hurriedly up and down the room. Indoors or out, he found no rest. He threw himself in the armchair near the table and sat buried in thought.

Mandy came softly into the room. She was followed by Hasty, who carried a tray laden with things that ought to have tempted any man. She motioned for Hasty to put the tray on the table and then began arranging the dishes. Hasty stole to the window and peeped out at the tempting flare of red fire.

When Douglas discovered the presence of his two "faithfuls" he was touched with momentary contrition.

"Have you had a hard day with the new gravel walk?" he asked Hasty, remembering that he had been laying a fresh path to the Sunday school room.

"Jes' yo' come eat yo' supper," Mandy called to Douglas. "Don't yo' worry your head 'bout dat lazy husband' ob mine. He ain't goin' ter work 'nuff to hurt hisself." For an instant she had been tempted to let the pastor know how Hasty had gone to the circus and seen nothing of Polly, but her motherly instinct won the day, and she urged him to eat before disturbing him with her own anxieties. It was no use. He only toyed with his food; he was clearly ill at ease and eager to be alone. She gave up trying to tempt his appetite and began to lead up in a roundabout way to the things which she wished to ask.

"Dar's quite some racket out dar in de lot tonight," she said. Douglas did not answer. After a moment she went on, "Hasty didn't work on no walk today." Douglas looked at her quizzically, while Hasty, convinced that for reasons of her own she was going to get him into trouble, was making frantic motions. "He done gone ter de circus," she blurted out. Douglas's face became suddenly grave. Mandy said that she had touched an open wound.

"I jes' couldn't stan' it, Massa John. I had ter find out 'bout dat angel chile." There was a pause. She felt that he was waiting for her to go on.

"She didn't done ride today."

He looked up with the eyes of a dumb, persecuted animal. "And de gemmen in de show didn't tell nobody why—jes' speaked 'bout de udder gal takin' her place."

"Why didn't she ride?" cried Douglas, in an agony of suspense.

"Dat's what I don't know, sah," Mandy began to cry. It was the first time in his experience that Douglas had ever known her to give way to any such weakness.

Hasty came down from the window and tried to put one arm about Mandy's shoulders.

"Leab me alone, yo' nigger!" she exclaimed, trying to cover her tears with a show of anger that she did not feel; then she rushed from the room, followed by Hasty.

The band was playing loudly. The din of the night performance was increasing. Douglas' nerves were strained to the point of breaking. He would not let himself go near the window. He stood by the side of the table, his fists clinched, and tried to beat back the impulse that was pulling him toward the door. Again and again he set his teeth.

It was uncertainty that gnawed at him so. Was she ill? Could she need him? Was she sorry for having left him? Would she be glad if he went for her and brought her back with him? He recalled the hysterical note in her behavior the day that she went away—how she had pleaded, only a few moments before Jim came, never to be separated from him. Had she really cared for Jim and for the old life? Why had she never written? Was she ashamed? Was she sorry for what she had done? What could it mean? He threw his hands above his head with a gesture of despair. A moment later he passed out into the night.

Prize Mule Goes to Nevada.
Lincoln, Neb., April 9.—Announcement was made today at the office of W. J. Bryan that Esmeralda county, Nevada, having made the greatest Democratic gain in the election last November has been awarded the prize mule. The mule, Major Minnemascott, was presented to Mr. Bryan during the campaign by Minnesota admirers, and the then candidate offered it as a prize to the county making the best showing in the election. Esmeralda county, it is announced, showed a gain of 694 per cent.

Wabash College Gets $10,000 in Addition to the $200,000 Fund.

Crawfordsville, Ind., April 9.—President Mackintosh of Wabash college returned from New York and announced to the students the successful completion of the $200,000 endowment campaign, and said that $10,000 additional had been received, making the total amount $210,000. Of this sum Andrew Carnegie gave $50,000, the general education board of New York $50,000 and the remaining $110,000 has been subscribed by the faculty, students, alumni and friends of the college.

STRANGER VICTIM OF TRAIN

Unidentified Man Found Dead on Vandalia Tracks Near Clayton, Ind.

Danville, Ind., April 9.—The body of an unidentified man was found along the tracks of the Vandalia railroad, east of Clayton, this county, where he evidently had been struck by a train. The stranger was well dressed and was freshly shaven. His head was bald on top with a fringe of brown hair. No papers of any kind were found on his person by which his identity could be learned. He evidently was about fifty years old.

Caught After Three Years.

Oakland City, Ind., April 9.—Homer Cook, a fugitive from Gibson county for three years, was captured here last night by Elmer Wallace, city marshal. Cook is charged with burglary. Shortly after the crime for which he is held was committed he was arrested, but while in jail at Princeton awaiting trial he saved the bars and with several other prisoners made his escape. The gang to which Cook is alleged to have belonged committed numerous burglaries here and five of the gang are now "doing time" at Jeffersonville.

Robert M. Lockhart Dead.

Waterloo, Ind., April 9.—Robert M. Lockhart, seventy-nine years old, is dead at his home here. He came to Dekalb county in 1852. He celebrated his golden wedding anniversary on November 24, 1907. Soon after the war he was elected a member of the Indiana legislature and later was elected a member of the State Board of Agriculture, which position he filled for twenty years.

The Floss Still Missing.

Cleveland, O., April 9.—No word has been received from the tug George Floss, the fishing boat which disappeared with Captain Berry, a crew of three and two passengers during the windstorm on Lake Erie Wednesday. The owners have given up all hope of seeing the craft again.

No Change in Situation.

Philadelphia, April 9.—The conference between the operators and miners adjourned for the day after a session lasting more than two hours. There is no change in the situation.

SAY TOO MANY VOTES CAST

Leader of the Temperance Forces in Cass County Declares That There Were More Votes Cast in Certain Precincts in Recent Option Election Than Were Polled in the Fall Election.—A Charge of Fraudulent Voting May be Based Upon This Showing.

Logansport, Ind., April 9.—When the official canvass of the local option vote in Cass county showed only a majority of 108 for the "wets," the "dry" leaders made an investigation. As a result the following statement was given out by Dr. J. Z. Powell, leader of the temperance forces:

"In the local election we were beaten by 108 votes, but we are convinced that we were beaten by the use of money and illegal voting. As proof of this we call attention to the fact that there were 125 more votes cast in six precincts than were cast in the November election for governor. There are no other precincts which cast a vote larger than last fall. We are convinced that there were enough illegal votes cast in these precincts alone to have changed the entire result, and had not the saloon crowd resorted to such methods and undue use of money we would have won."

It is probable that the anti-saloon league will take some action to have the election declared illegal or at least to have those accused of being illegal voters punished.

Many of the temperance people feel very bitter toward the merchants who composed the Logansport Business Men's association, and it is rumored an organization boycott is being established. The "drys" attribute their defeat solely to the Logansport Business Men's association.

FREED REV. RICHEY

High Court Reverses Decision Against Preacher Who Elop.

Noblesville, Ind., April 9.—The announcement from Indianapolis that the supreme court has reversed the case against the Rev. J. W. Richey, who is in jail in this city, was not surprising to the people of this county. Richey was convicted of eloping with Miss Bertha Williamson, of Carmel, fined $300 and sentenced to six months in jail. The evidence was regarded by many as insufficient. Prosecutor Gentry says he has presented all the evidence he has and will not insist on another trial of the case. At the time of his escapade Richey was pastor of the Methodist Church at Carmel. Miss Williamson was employed as a domestic in his home. Richey's wife is living in Indianapolis, and it is understood that she will not push the charge of wife desertion.

MEDICAL EXPERTS

Are Having Their Innings in Murder Trial at Lafayette.

Lafayette, Ind., April 9.—The McMarran murder case in the circuit court bids fair to resolve itself into a battle of medical experts, some of whom declare Thomas Gallagher, the alleged victim of the man on trial, died on heart trouble, while others declare the man choked to death from an injury inflicted by McMarran.

The state is having great difficulty in getting its witnesses to testify. They plead forgetfulness. Even the murdered man's widow did not give much damaging evidence against the defendant. Two doctors declare Gallagher's heart was literally in a state of putrefaction. Two other doctors say the man's throat was so badly injured that he choked to death.

Nothing Doing at Springfield.

Springfield, Ill., April 9.—On the sixty-eighth joint ballot for United States senator the total vote was: Hopkins, 71; Foss, 16; Shurtleff, 17; Stringer, 21; Lowden, 1; McKinley, 2; Calhoun, 1; Sherman, 2; Yates, 1; Joseph Sabath, 3; P. J. Lucey, of Streator, 37; R. F. Kinsella, 2; A. F. Evans, 1; Mason, 2. By a gentlemen's agreement the quorum was broken today and the next actual ballot will be next Wednesday noon.

To Prevent Gas Waste.

Oakland City, Ind., April 9.—An oil well estimated to produce 125 barrels a day has been drilled on the English lease, three miles southeast of this city. B. A. Kinney, state gas inspector, is here testing wells and making arrangements to prevent the waste of gas by operators. He says the field is the greatest gas territory in the state. A test of the Nixon well shows a volume of 4,000,000 cubic feet and a pressure of 525 pounds.

Two Boys and a Gun.

Indianapolis, April 9.—William Cudworth, aged seventeen, and Leo Maroney, aged sixteen, were going to hunt sparrows with flintlock rifles. The weapon in Cudworth's hands was discharged in an unguarded moment and Maroney received the bullet in the right temple. He died a few hours later.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.
Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.
The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr.
Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.
The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well to the system.

Home Furnishing Company's

Entire Furniture and Carpet Stock

DOOMED

The Public Will Benefit

The public of Rushville, Indiana, and vicinity for seventy-five to one hundred miles in all directions, will benefit greatly by the tremendous sacrifice, closing out sale of the Home Furnishing Company's entire stock of $45,000 worth of furniture, carpets, rugs, and household needs. The entire stock is now in the hands of the National Salvage Company of Chicago, with instructions to sell it quickly regardless of wholesale cost of the goods. The National Salvage Company say that they will inaugurate a scientific slaughter as soon as the stock is invoiced, and sell the goods at such low prices as will amaze the public. This will indeed be a sacrifice closing out sale in every meaning of the word, such as the people of Rushville, and surrounding country have never had before in their lifetime.

The National Salvage Company of Chicago say that they will not move, pack or ship away one dollar's worth of the Home Furnishing Company's furniture, carpet or rug stock, that it must all be sold in Rushville within a few days' time.

The entire stock is now being invoiced in order to mark down every article in the entire building at the lowest possible prices, in order to dispose of the goods quickly. It will be a sale of Furniture, Carpets and Household Goods such as will pay you to come one hundred miles to attend. It is an opportunity of a lifetime for you to outfit your homes in good quality furniture, carpets, etc., at about 45 cents on the dollar.

The manager of the National Salvage Company informs us that they have engaged one hundred extra salespeople in order to serve the vast crowds who will attend this quit business sale, and closing out of the Home Furnishing Company's stock. We bespeak for this quit business furniture and carpet sale a most stupendous business, as The Home Furnishing company's reputation for carrying good quality furniture, carpets, rugs and house furnishings is well known in Rushville, and vicinity as during their career in business in Rushville they have only carried the most reliable quality of furniture, carpets, rugs and house furnishings.

This will certainly be a great feast of furniture bargains, and this big sale will no doubt attract thousands of people to Rushville, as the public well know the character of The Home Furnishing Company's stock of furniture, carpets, rugs and household needs. It is an opportunity that the public seldom have and the people are always ready to save themselves one-half on their purchases whenever that opportunity presents itself.

Merchants wishing to buy portions of this stock or any part of the fixtures, safe, counters, shelving, etc., will please call between the hours of 7:00 and 8:00 a. m. as all other hours during the day will be devoted to the immense crowds of people, who will want to buy this stock out at retail.

The Home Furnishing Company's big store, which is now closed, will remain closed in order to get the entire stock invoiced and every article marked down in plain figures to the very lowest possible limit, in order to sell the goods out rapidly, as this stock must and will be sold in ten days' time. The store will not be open for business until the opening day of this great, sacrifice, closing out, quit business sale, which starts on Wednesday, April 14th, at 8:00 a. m.

THINK WHAT THIS GREAT FURNITURE, CARPET, AND RUG SACRIFICE SALE MEANS TO YOU, RIGHT AT THE TIME OF THE YEAR WHEN YOU ARE THINKING OF REPLENISHING YOUR HOME, AND HOUSEHOLD NEEDS.

At the prices we understand this stock of furniture, carpets, rugs and house furnishings will be sold at, the public will certainly take quick action, and we predict that the entire stock, occupying their three big floors will melt away rapidly, like a snowfall before a July sun.

The opening day of this big sale, Wednesday morning, April 14, at 8:00 a. m. WILL BE A COLOSSAL EVENT, and we advise early morning selections as much as possible in order to facilitate serving the immense crowds who will attend this quit business, closing out sale. Nothing will be reserved. The entire stock must be sold quickly. Freight will be paid on any shipment made to your town. Never again will such an opportunity be presented to you. A word to the intelligent should be sufficient. We advise you to be on hand early and benefit accordingly. Drop everything.

Wait! — Wait! — Wait! — Prepare accordingly and make your arrangements to be here on the opening day, Wednesday morning, APRIL 14,
AT 8:00 A. M.

Booth, the Warrior of Peace

Remarkable Qualities of the Salvation Army's Founder and Chief, Whose Last and Greatest Project Is to Be a University of Humanity—Orator of Rare Powers, a Dynamo in Breeches and an Autocrat For Good.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

BY universal consent General William Booth, the founder and head of the Salvation Army, is the grandest old man in the world. Some sixty years ago, when he began work in his native city of Nottingham, England, he was jeered, insulted and made a target for decayed vegetables and eggs. Now, at the age of eighty, he has nearly 3,000,000 converts, operates in fifty-four countries, has all sorts of branch bureaus for social betterment, is blessed where he once was reviled, respected where he was held in contempt, is received by kings and presidents with honor and by the poor with ovations and looks over a world that he has conquered by his armies of peace.

For many weeks General Booth's followers and friends throughout the earth have been planning popular demonstrations for his eightieth birthday, April 10, and for the announcement on that day of his last and greatest project, that of a University of Humanity, which will train students for salvation work. This institution will have branches in various cities in all lands, New York and Chicago among the number.

He is still vigorous, is in active charge of his immense establishment even to details, works from fifteen to a born autocrat and can tongue lash people if they do not toe the mark. He is not a soft man. Like all those surcharged with nervous force, all those who do things, he is not complacent. Some one described Daniel Webster as a "steam engine in breeches." Booth is a dynamo in breeches. When on a motor tour of England at the age of seventy-nine, making more speeches in a day than most evangelists make in a week, his constant command to his chauffeur was "Faster." He probably broke speed laws, but if so he did it to the glory of God.

He is not a conventional man. In his early work he held his meetings in cheap theaters and dance halls and once over the door put up the legend, "No Respectable People Admitted Here." When asked where he would draw his recruits he answered, "From the dance halls and saloons." And he did. He was like the master of the feast that sent out into the byways and hedges for his guests. His mission was to the one lost sheep and not to the ninety and nine. Booth gives his hand and heart to the unfortunate, the outcast and the sinner. He may go after them with drums, or with soap, or with beds and meal tickets, or with "the manly land for the landless man," or with doggerel songs set to dance hall airs, or with the other unconventional

Booth must have been well nigh as striking a figure as now. Tall, slight, ardent, he was on fire to carry the gospel to the "submerged tenth," and no scoffing, indifference, hardship or actual danger could deter him. He continued his open air preaching even while gaining an education and while employed at clerical work during the day. He was warned by the doctors that his health would not stand the strain and that if he did not desist his life would pay the penalty, but he hesitated not at all. Even when a comrade fell at his side Booth went on. He received a private education from a Methodist tutor and was ordained to the ministry in the New Connection church at the age of twenty-three. Three years later he was married to Catherine Mumford, the remarkable woman who was afterward to win the world's love as the "mother of the army." As long as Booth could act as a traveling evangelist he was content to remain in the regular ministry, but when the conference required him to settle down to the ordinary circuit work he resigned. A certain dramatic scene in connection with that resignation is yet recalled. In the gallery at the conference sat a girlish figure, and when the decision was reached that Mr. Booth was to give up his evangelical work the assembled ministers were not a little startled to hear a clear voice ring from above, "Never!" It meant the cutting off of a scant livelihood and facing the world without a dollar, not an easy thing for a woman to do, especially since there were already little mouths to feed, but the noblest causes in this world have been built on the heroism of women.

Life Often Endangered.

Out of the ministry and also out of a livelihood, Booth began preaching in an old tent in a Quaker burying ground. The tent, which was donated, was ripped to pieces in a storm, after which meetings were held in cheap halls, in parks or in byways and alleyways. The work was in the worst section of London, Whitechapel, and the young preacher's life was often endangered by the hostile mob. The cause threw on persecution, however, and in 1865 in a literally God forsaken part of the great city called Mile End Waste the Salvation Army was started. It was not at first called by that name, but was known as the Christian mission. Booth had a happy faculty of coloring phrases and in 1877 penned the line, "The Christian mission is a volunteer army." Then he erased the word "volunteer" and in place thereof wrote "salvation." The name stuck and was the real inception of the army as it exists today. There was no preconceived plan of adopting it, but rather a spontaneous growth. In a short time the leaders were called "captains." Booth himself became the "general," a uniform was adopted, drums, bugles and marching columns were brought into requisition, and a new era was started in religious propaganda among the poor.

In 1879 the War Cry was started, which now, with kindred publications of the army, is printed in twenty-one languages and circulates over a million copies a week. In 1880 the cause took on international scope by invading America. The next year it was carried into France. In 1885 the purity crusade was started for the protection of young girls. In 1886 General Booth made his first trip to the United States and Canada, holding 200 meetings in three months. In 1890 appeared his most famous book, "In Darkest England and the Way Out." During the same year was founded the celebrated Hadleigh Farm colony, a system which the army has extended over the earth. Then India was invaded, and the Indian banking system was inaugurated to protect the poor from extortionate rates of interest. There followed the establishment of homes and employment for Armenian refugees, the naval and military league to work among soldiers and sailors throughout the world, homes for fallen women, shelters for waifs and strays, prison gate homes for ex-convicts, servants' homes, hospitals, factories and workshops, bureaus for temporary and permanent employment, poor men's lawyer department, bureaus for tracing lost and missing friends, food depots and shelters for the destitute, free beds and finally the anti-suicide department.

A Universal Traveler.

Whatever may be thought of the religious methods of the Salvation Army, its social work merits and receives universal praise. Behind all these beneficent activities stands the prophetic figure of William Booth. Autocrat he may be, but if so he is an autocrat for good and one who has done more to spread self reliance and self respect among those who most needed both these qualities than any other one man of his time.

Not only his institution, but the man himself, is known in well nigh every land beneath the sun. In the prosecution of his work he has been a universal traveler, having traversed America and Europe many times and having visited Africa, Australasia, India and even Japan. The dream of his life was to stand in the Holy Land, which he did some years ago, and his venerable figure seemed like one that had stepped out of the Old Testament and had returned home.

General Booth lives the simple life. He eats no meats, his food staples being tea and toast, vegetables in season and rice. He sleeps little, has no recreations and works even when traveling. While immense funds come into his hands, they are all turned over to the army, as he requires little for himself.

This is the warrior of peace, the evangelist who preaches in deeds, who carries the gospel to the poor. Take him all in all, I know of no more inspiring figure in modern times.

DEATH ENDS HER EXILE OF YEARS

Russia Will Allow Modjeska's Body to Be Returned.

BAN DOESN'T EXTEND TO GRAVE

No Objection Will Be Made By the Russian Government to the Interment of Madame Modjeska's Body at Cracow, Though it May Be Necessary to Impose Certain Restrictions, Such as a Private and Secret Interment When the Body Reaches Poland.

Washington, April 9.—The decision to take Mme. Modjeska's body back to Poland for interment gave rise to the question as to whether the Russian government would permit this in view of the debarment of the actress from her native land and the fact that the obsequies might incite a national anti-Russian demonstration.

At the Russian embassy here it was said no objection would be made by the Russian government, so far as is known here, to the interment of Mme. Modjeska's body at Cracow. It will be necessary, however, to secure the usual permission to allow a body to enter the country. It was explained that if the government had reason to anticipate any demonstration, it probably would impose certain restrictions such as a private and secret interment, when Mme. Modjeska's body reaches Poland.

DEATH OF MODJESKA

Great Actress Succumbs to Illness of Two Months.

Los Angeles, April 9.—Mme. Helena Modjeska, the famous Polish tragedienne and one of the most noted actresses of the American stage, is dead at her island home at Bay City, at the age of sixty-five, after an illness of about two months. Modjeska's husband and son were with her when she end came. Modjeska was born near Cracow, Poland, in 1844, and made her debut on the stage at Bochnia, Poland, in 1861. She was educated in a Catholic convent in Cracow. In 1889-'90 she took the leading woman's roles with Edwin Booth. Starring as "Booth and Modjeska," the famous pair played to record houses throughout the United States. Modjeska was twice married.

The body of the actress will be taken to Los Angeles, where it will lie in a vault for some time. Later Count Bozenta, her husband, will take the body to Cracow, Poland.

Count Bozenta, husband of Mme. Modjeska, talked before her death of the reasons for the coming of himself and wife with others from Poland in 1876. Because of his political writings he was exiled from Poland, and Mme. Modjeska was by imperial ukase debarred from the Polish stage. Following the publication of a paper read by Mme. Modjeska at the world's fair in Chicago, which had to do with Russian-Polish politics and the former ukase of the Czar, a further order was issued barring Modjeska from Russian possessions. It is believed by Count Bozenta, however, that there will be no hindrance to his mission to bury the body of the famous actress in Poland.

Six-Year-Old Charged With Murder.
Union, S. C., April 9.—Though only six years old, Fred Bell is a prisoner in the Union county jail with the charge of murder resting against him. It is charged that the child yesterday afternoon shot Ethel Thomas, who was three years of age. It was alleged that the boy tried to hide the body of the little victim in an apparent effort to cover up the tragedy. He is the youngest prisoner ever committed to the jail in this county and probably holds the record for the state.

Deputy Slain by Negro.
Birmingham, Ala., April 9.—Deputy Sheriff James Steadham, was fatally shot at Riverside, Ala., by Webb Turkey, a negro. The negro filled the deputy's face and shoulders full of buckshot and escaped. The trouble arose over money due the negro.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

King Menelik, of Abyssinia, is again in a serious condition from angina pectoris.

Indications point to a contest in the senate over the sugar schedule in the tariff bill.

The officers of the various great lakes labor unions assembled at Buffalo declare that no general strike order has been issued.

James Smith, a negro, convicted of the murder of James Flynn, a confederate veteran, was electrocuted in the penitentiary at Richmond, Va.

It is the intention to discourage general debate when the tariff bill is reported to the senate next week and begin work at once on the adoption of the committee amendments.

Hal C. Be, first baseman of the New York Americans, is at the detention hospital at Augusta undergoing treatment for smallpox.

Ordway Puller, a former member of the Virginia legislature, and a prominent young attorney of Richmond, was shot by policemen just after having broken the window of a saloon.

Wholesale raids by detectives in the employ of the Prohibition party startled the city of Mobile and resulted in the seizure of large quantities of liquors at the swell hotels and cafes of the town.

Direct nominations as recommended by Governor Hughes received their death blow in the New York assembly when by a vote of 112 to twenty-eight the assembly decided to sustain the adverse report of the judiciary committee which had registered its disapproval of the measure.

MORE THAN THEY WERE LOOKING FOR Church Taken Off Its Feet by Big Contribution.

Washington, Penn. April 9.—The insertion of an advertisement in a local paper that there had been found in the collection plate of the Roscoe Methodist Episcopal Church near here after the services last Sunday night a $10,000 bill, developed the fact that the church officers think the donor made a mistake. The yearly collections of the church do not average much more than this amount, and the officials, in the advertisement say they will return the money to the owner if he wants it and can prove he inadvertently dropped it into the plate.

Excitement at High Pitch.

Tallahassee, Fla., April 9.—When Governor Gilchrist's message was debated in the legislature, Senator Beard moved to table that portion which recommended making the anniversary of Lincoln's birthday a holiday. Excitement rose to a high pitch when Senator Broome, a confederate veteran, led the argument in favor of observing the birthday. Beard's motion was lost.

Fifty Buildings Destroyed.

Manchester, N. H., April 9.—A large portion of the tenement house district, just south of the business center of this city, was wiped out by fire. It destroyed about fifty wooden, three- and four-story buildings. Six hundred men, women and children, mostly Greeks were made homeless, and the loss is estimated at about $150,000.

Sampson Case Nearing End.

Lyons, N. Y., April 9.—The state's case against Mrs. Georgia Allyn Sampson, the young woman charged with killing her husband, Harry Sampson, last November, came to a close last night. The defense's testimony will be brief and it is the general expectation that the case will go to the jury late this afternoon.

GENERAL WILLIAM BOOTH AT HIS DESK AND ON A MOTOR PREACHING TOUR—BUILDING WITH SIGN "POPULAR PRICES," IN MILE END WASTE SECTION OF LONDON, THE ARMY'S BIRTHPLACE.

eighteen hours a day and says he expects to live to be 150.

However long General Booth lives, it is safe to say that his gospel of "soap, soup and salvation" will go on indefinitely and his drumbeat will still be heard around the world. He believes in ministering to bodies as well as souls and in making men happy here as well as hereafter. His creed is that the way to regenerate society is to regenerate the individuals composing society. With political movements of any kind he has nothing to do. His appeal is to the individual unit, and he uses co-operation only as a means to that end.

In person General Booth is tall—over six feet—and spare. He has a piercing eye, a nose like the beak of an eagle, a high, though retreating forehead, white hair and a white beard. He is an orator of rare powers, being a master of appeal, denunciation, invective, fiery exhortation, homely wisdom and anecdote. He is as ready with the pen as with the spoken word, a thing not common among orators. To this unusual combination he adds such powers as an organizer and leader that General Wolsley, once head of the British army, said that Booth would have made a great military commander. A man that can talk, write and command can move the world, provided he has sufficient faith, purpose and concentration. Booth has all these and several other things—for example, boundless energy. He works all the time and demands that others do the same. He has no room for a lazy man.

No Respectable People Wanted.

He it known that among his other qualities William Booth possesses a temper. With all his kindness he is ways familiar to Salvation Army usage, but he goes after them. That is the great point.

General Booth's beau ideal and patron saint is John Wesley. There is much in common between the two—both religious reformers, both breaking away from old conventional customs, both preaching in the open air and using methods denounced as sensational, both appealing to the poor, the sinful and the suffering; both doing a prodigious amount of work, not only as preachers, but as writers and organizers; both looking personally after the movements they founded even to minute details, both starting a great new departure in religion, both jeered at and held in contempt in the beginning, but gaining the golden opinion of mankind in the end.

Bombarded by Dead Cats.

The father of William Booth was a bulwer. The family belonged to the Established church, but at the age of fifteen the future head of the Salvation Army happened by a Methodist chapel, was attracted to enter and almost instantly experienced conversion. In his ardent way he demanded immediately to be set at work and was sent out to induce the mill men to come to church. In the open spaces about the shops the boy enthusiast appealed to his grumpy hearers in impassioned sentences, but to the accompaniment of hoots, dead cats and rotten vegetables. These he resented not at all, but led as many men as would go to the chapel and sat with them during service. It was a prophetic beginning of a career that was to be spent among the poor and to an accompaniment of misunderstanding and abuse.

In those days of extreme youth
